Tex Middleton to attend 10th Senior Legislature

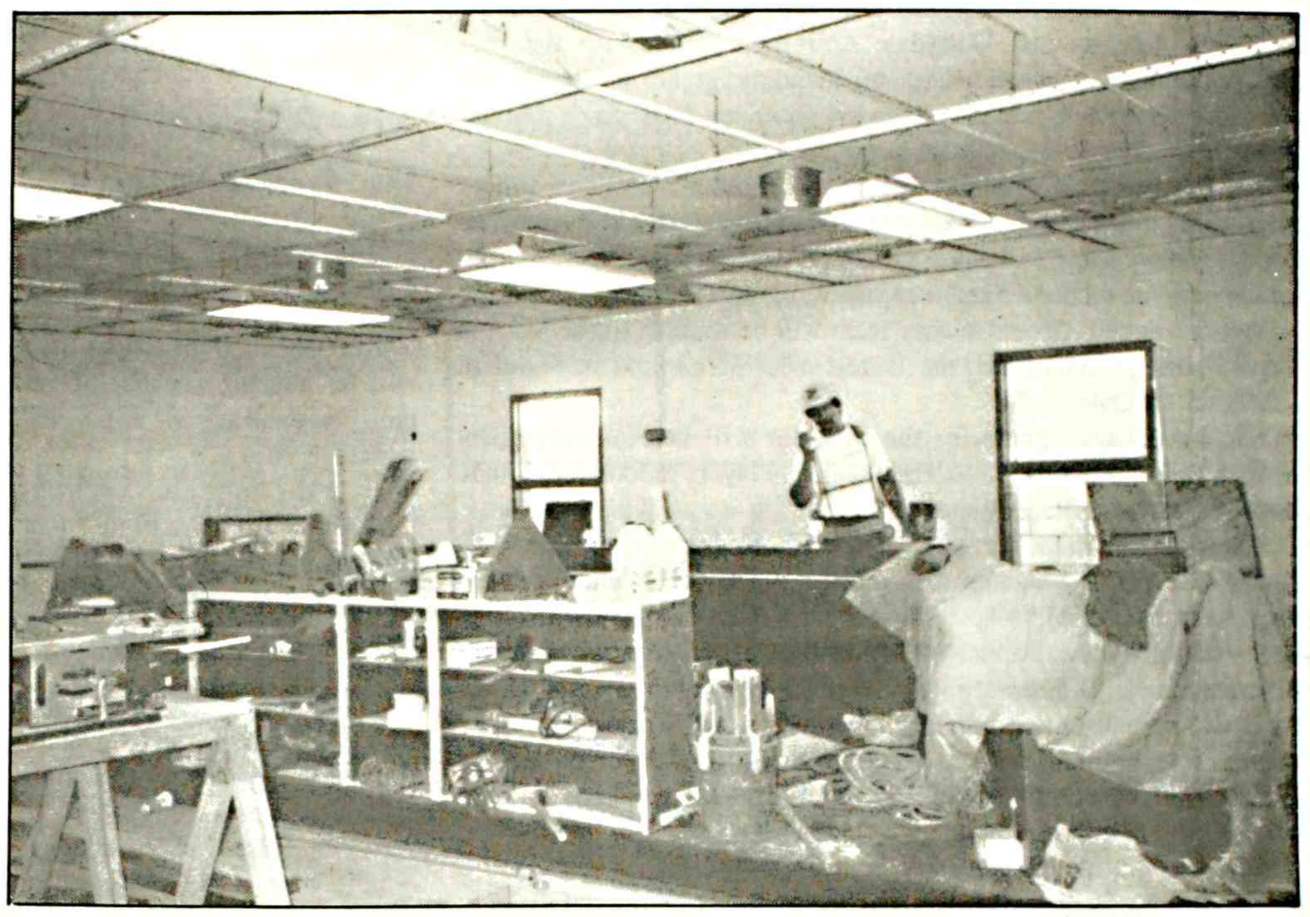
Top legislative concerns of the elderly will be addressed during the 10th Annual legislative session of the California Senior Legislature to be held at the State capital in Sacramento.

Assemblyman Elwyn "Tex" Middleton of Lemon Grove reports that he has submitted legislative proposal covering the issue of nutrition programs for the elderly. Under an existing law, funds for the Older Americans Act Title III-C are appropriated by Congress and states have to contribute matching funds. Unfortunately, during the past eight years there have been no increases in State funding to keep up with escalating costs. Title III-C nutrition sites are under-funded and turning away those desperately in need of these services, according to Middleton.

Therefore, he is proposing that the senior legislature of the State of California apply $5 million (with yearly increases proportionate to the increases in the elderly population) to the Title III-C program so that all elderly who wish to participate may to so.

Each senior legislator is allowed to submit two proposals for the legislative session which will run from October 15 through 17. Modeled after the State Legislature, senior legislators will hold committee hearings and floor debates in order to prioritize the legislative needs of the more than 4. 2 million senior citizens of California.

Requests for more information about the California Senior Legislature may be directed to the local Area Agency on Aging or the California Senior Legislature at 322-5630.



Construction work is progressing with the remodelling of the Lemon Grove Community Center on School Lane.

Senior staging of "Harvey" pleases local audiences

By Karen O'Rourke

"Harvey," the two-hour, three-act play presented by theLemon Grove Senior Center, makes for a hilarious evening; not only because the play itself is very humorous (which it is!), but also because the sudden script-searchings and mutual stage-whispered promptings of these amateur senior players adds to the fun, rather than disrupting the storyline, as you might think!

There are a pair of factors at work here, which permit such hilarity: the warm and self-amused support of the actors for one another; and the gentle; forgiving audiences who react with generous and spontaneous applause and laughter.

Nearly 160 populated the audience on opening night, Friday, roundly applauding the director of the production, Irene Rogers, who successfully urged a dozen enthusiastic, elder memories almost into submission, and rode herd on those players for hours each day for months, to rehearse the comedy.

Assisting her in the production include Eva Pinkham, Daniel Gonzalez, Elisa Gonzalez, Charlotte Gates, Emily Radi, Lloyd Radi, Aurora San Martin, Mike Richards and Donna Pasanen.

The cast, in order of appearance, includes: Irene Rogers, Alta Holmberg, Al Pinkham, Elisa Gonzalez, Stella John, Doris Kennedy, Lonis Hale, Bob Riddick, Sol Gordon, Gloria Dicharry, Rush Rowle, and Julius Orozco. Each of them are excellently cast in his or her role.

A suggestion for improvement? Keep running the play in Lemon Grove then take it on the road, until the players have nearly memorized their scripts. Then go on to another production. And charge more than $2.50. I got more than my money's worth in laughter.

I can't remember when I've had as much fun at a play, and I would recommend this one over many (higher-priced) professionally produced theatricals available lately.

If you could use a good laugh at no one's expense, try "Harvey" this weekend. Curtain Friday and Saturday at 8 p.m. at Lemon Grove Middle School auditorium (School Lane at Central Avenue). Admission is $2 at the door. Refreshments will be sold. All proceeds benefit the senior programs offered by the Lemon Grove-Spring Valley Nutrition Board and the Lemon Grove Senior Center.

(Editor's note: Reviewer O'Rourke swears she'd recommend the play even if her dad didn't play the part of Elwood P. Dowd and her mother wasn't assistant director of the production.)

Two Mt. Miguel High School students honored by National Merit program

By Tim Boice

Mount Miguel High School has announced its 1990-91 National Merit Scholars.

Anna Bjornson was named as a semi-finalist. She is the news editor of the school newspaper, "El Trovador," and has worked on the annual literary magazine, "Reflections." Her interest in reading and writing began at an early age, "My dad has taught me more than any of my teachers put together. I don't know how he did it, but somehow he managed to make me want to learn things just for the sake of knowing things. He read to me until I could read and then he told me to do it myself. So I've always read a lot." She plans to pursue a career as an English literature teacher at the high school or college level.

Sandee Lobbes was named as a commended student, as well. About 35,000 commended students nationwide were named for their performance on the 1989 PSAT/NMSQT, which places them in the top five percent of more than one million students who entered the 1991 Merit program by taking the qualifying test.

An official at the Merit program said, "Being named a commended student in this extremely competitive program is a credit to these young people and their schools. Commended students were offered an opportunity to be referred by the Merit program to two colleges or universities of their choice. We hope the referral service and the recognition commended students have earned will enhance their higher education opportunities and increase their motivation to use their abilities to the fullest. These young men and women represent an important intellectual resource our nation needs."

State disburses taxes to City

State Controller Gray Davis recently announced the distribution of $4,989,272 to counties and cities as the July apportionment of the cigarette tax.

San Diego County received $19,486, and the City of Lemon Grove got $3,226. The 58 counties' share was $758,030, and the cities' share totaled $4,231,242.

This distribution represents 30 percent of the revenue deposited in the Cigarette Tax Fund during the month of June, less the State's administrative cost of $54,350.

He also announced the distribution of $107,060,200 among the State cities and counties as the July apportionment of highway users taxes.

San Diego County's share was $1,985.268, and the City of Lemon Grove's share was $25,588.

A total of $26,538,972 went directly to the counties; $25,641,301 to cities $54,849,927 for expenditure of State Highways and $30,000 to the Bicycle Lane Account.

The total apportionment was derived from following sources: gasoline tax, $93,924,769; diesel fuel tax, $13,406,716. The diesel fuel tax was $1,038,273 more than for July, 1989. The diesel fuel tax distribution was $386,165 more than last year.

Finally, he reported distribution of $71,445,981 to cities and $71,445,981 to counties as the July apportionment of state-collected "in-lieu" motor vehicle license fees.

Davis reported San Diego County received $6,080,966 and the City of Lemon Grove received $70,732.

The distribution represents the cities and counties share of license fees and another revenue deposited in the Motor Vehicle License Fee Account during June.

The State excise tax at the rate of $2 per $100 of market value takes the place of local property tax on motor vehicles.

Except for that portion withheld to cover administrative costs, the money is returned to local governments which may use their share for general purposes.

One-half of the distribution went to the cities and one-half to counties in the proportion that the population of each city of county bears to the population of all the cities or counties in the state of California.

Sports Commentary

by John E. Wirges

Padres dinged but not danged

Big Joe McIlvaine has taken on a king-size chore in accepting the directorship of San Diego Padre baseball operations. He has the experience and skills to do the job, but he'll need a thick skin to sustain the attacks already headed in his direction.

"Big Joe" (he's 6'6" and change) pleaded for time to allow him to reconstruct the company's input machinery and jack up the sagging Padre support pipeline.

McIlvaine met with San Diego media last week and outlined his concept of what it is going to take to return he Padres to perennial pennant contenders. One of the first things he mentioned was ownership involvement and support.

That sounds great. It makes one wonder if he'll get the kind of support Jack McKeon got from Chub Feeney and the gang that passed themselves off as front office wonders of recent memory.

Better study recent Padre history, Joe. You'd be surprised at the kind of support you can expect from the three-piece suits that forced McKeon into retirement.

McKeon got the axe partly because the supporting farm system wasn't turning up All-Stars at an acceptable rate. We had too many All-Star catchers and not enough infielders.

(Catcher Bennie Santiago and Sandy Alomar, Jr. made it to the All-Star game last summer, Benny with a broken arm and Sandy with the American League Cleveland Indians.)

Feeney also cut into McKeon's movements by getting him back on the field. Only a great second half drive and natural pride kept him there for the start of the 1990.

No one man can do it all at the same time, but Jack gave it a mighty try. And what were his remarks?

Don't turn your back on your new colleagues, Joe. Don't listen to those who say a quick fix can put the Padres back into next year's pennant race.

A ton of free agents (who are anything but) will flood the market place again. Sluggers like Darryl Strawberry of your old New York Mets and (perhaps) the Padres own Jack Clark will highlight a parade of big sticks guaranteed to produce power for the right price. (The going rate is about $100,000 per homer, or $3 million for 30 home runs).

It makes one wonder what $3 million would produce if it were spent on scouting the various hotbeds of baseball activity like the Dominican Republic, Venezuela, Panama and Puerto Rico; perhaps even make inroads into Cuba.

McIlvaine is committed to building through the farm system and plans on spending considerable time and effort as well as money to improve the amount and quality of San Diego's slightly rusty farm machinery. Such reconstruction is one of his great strengths.

McIlvaine, who speaks fluent Spanish (as well as classic Latin and Greek) is busy this week at the World Series, talking his way through scores of "wouldbe," "mightbe" and "what if" player deals.

That is natural for the species. In some respects World Series games are secondary to the conversations and contacts between baseball teams, general managers and trusted scouts.

Endorsement misrepresentation by San Diego 2000 alleged

Dear Editor:

Approximately a year ago, ex-senator Jim Mills sent me a letter inviting me to join a group called San Diego 2000 which would study traffic and growth alternatives with an eye toward writing an initiative for California's ballot.

Because I was and am concerned about both of these issues, I signed a card to work on the committee. The card also asked if I would be willing to join a speaker's bureau to publicize it; I was too busy at that point to do so, and I checked "no" on the card.

Until about a month and a half ago, I heard nothing more about the committee or the invitation. Then a representative contacted me and asked me to support Props D and M. Since I had not seen anything in writing, I responded by asking for the written propositions so that I could study them. When they arrived in the mailbox. I pored over them and found I could not endorse them because of their broadness and vagueness. I met with a San Diego 2000 official and explained my refusal. We both clearly understood that I would not endorse the propositions.

To my surprise, I have learned that my name appears on literature as an endorser for both propositions.

A reporter from the San Diego Union called me yesterday to query me about this for a story he is writing.

This letter is the best way that I know of to alert the public to the fact that I do not endorse either of these propositions. My attorney has advised me to take this step since he is contacting San Diego 2000.

Sincerely, June M. Mott

Joe Freed on the Movies

Mr. Destiny and Desperate Hours

"Mr. Destiny"

I never understand why people make fun of corny movies. When you think about it, life is pretty corny. I know we all gag when we hear actors delivering those bittersweet lines about love and devotion...but then don't we say those same silly things one week later? And in "Mr. Destiny," when Larry Burrows (James Belushi), wishes that his life could have been just a little more fulfilling, haven't we all had those same thoughts? "If only I had a better job, or made more money..." or in Larry Burrows case, "If only I hadn't struck out in the high school championship baseball game." For Larry is convinced that it was that event which led his life to ruin.

One day, on the anniversary of his baseball tragedy, Larry meets Mr. Destiny (Michael Caine), a man who can give him everything he always wanted. He can have wealth, power and luxury, on the condition that he forsake every aspect of his true life, including his wife (Linda Hamilton).

Now Larry is president of the largest company in town, he lives in a huge mansion and is married to prom queen Cindy Jo. He has ten cars, two kids and a mistress. But even the good life can become complicated, and longing for that which he left behind, Larry ultimately toys with the power of destiny.

Written by James Orr and Jim Cruickshank (the same team that wrote "Three Men and a Baby"), and directed by Orr, "Mr. Destiny" is an enjoyable comedy. Not that its going to win any Academy Awards, but it will really make you feel good. Right now Hollywood seems to be in a dark mood, with six studios releasing films about the mafia and underworld violence, and "Mr. Destiny" can be a pleasant change of pace.

As for the acting, Michael Caine is fantastic. Then again, I always think he's fantastic. It's so difficult to remain objective when judging your favorite actor. I think if someone did a remake of Andy Warhol's "Sleep," this time featuring Michael Caine, I'd give it an A+. There just isn't another actor like him. As Mr. Destiny, Caine is a commanding yet charming sprite, which plays well off of Belushi. Emotionally overwhelmed, Larry is not ashappy with granted wishes as he thought he would be. In situations reminiscent of "It's a Wonderful Life," Belushi's performance brightens as Larry discovers what is truly important in his life. You know, the usual: love and devotion.-..pretty corny stuff, but I like it that way.

"Desperate Hours"

Mickey Rourke stars in this compelling thriller as Michael Bosworth, an escaped convict who forcibly takes refuge in the home of a wealthy suburbanite, played by the brilliant Anthony Hopkins. Although initially using the house simply as a hideout, Bosworth eventually takes the family hostage in his struggle to keep his freedom.

Directed by Michael Cimino, the film is a dramatic rarity, entirely riveting throughout. Rourke is good, but he's just repeating the same character he plays in all of his movies. As can be expected, Anthony Hopkins truly shines. A fine supporting cast includes Mimi Rogers, Lindsay Crouse and Kelly Lynch.

National Red Ribbon week is upon us once again. It is again time to raise community awareness and increase East County's commitment to the war on drugs and alcohol misuse. All you need to do is believe in the cause and pin a piece of red ribbon to your shirt or blouse which states you are drug free and do not misuse alcohol. Be an example to youth. Take a stand by showing your commitment on October 26th.

DrawDown deadline nears

Preparation for the Chamber's Second Annual DrawDown is in process. We hope you noticed the prize list in the Review last week. If so, you now have a first hand idea of what to expect. Last year, the Golden Nugget weekend was won by Reggie Davis, manager of the Great American Bank in Lemon Grove. Reggie had a difficult time getting away from the bank until recently. He and wife, Charlaine, took a long weekend and spent time at the Golden Nugget. Reggie said, " It was VIP treatment from start to finish." From the minute the Nugget staff welcomed them in the Lobby, until the very last minute of their stay, they felt like "royalty." Reggie said, "Everyone should have a chance to win the Nugget weekend."

Eva Berry and husband Al Pinkham won two weekends at the last DrawDown. We heard from their friends and relatives that Eva and Al thought they had won the best weekend. This year we have more weekends and many other wonderful prizes, so don't wait. Call the Chamber office today to get your ticket. This is a fun way to help support your local Chamber of Commerce, and it could also be a profitable evening as well. Our deadline for tickets is October 18th.

Lewis Engraving hosts Sundowner

It was a nice evening for the September Sundowner. Gary Ulrici, owner of Lewis Engraving, was the official greeter and made everyone feel welcome. Gary hired Top Hat Catering to do the cooking for the evening, and it was "top hat, delicious" as usual. Several people came to see what a Sundowner was all about and we hope they all had a wonderful time. Sundowners are an excellent way for networking. Networking is one advantage of our Chamber and we welcome all members, propective members, and interested business representatives to come and check it out. Networking is where you can talk about the things you do and what your company can do. The Sundowners have a relaxed social atmosphere. One in which you can meet your peers; find out about other businesses, and trade information on businesses with the possibility for a future customer.

We have a Fishbowl at every Sundowner. It is a way to collect business cards for the Chamber and a perfect way to get to know who is interested in the Chamber. At about 6:30 p.m. we have the drawing. One card is pulled from the container to be the winner. Our winner for September was none other than C&M Wiring's Don Warrant. We haven't seen much of Don lately because he and wife Karen are running two business. Golly-gee Don! Did you have to win the Fishbowl the first thing out and all that stuff? Congratulations Don, and get your winning over with because there are a lot of people planning on winning the DrawDown this year. We figure if you get your winning out of your system then you won't be in contention for the "big one" on October 27th.

We hope you will stop-by for our next Sundowner at San Diego Trust and Savings on October 24, 1990, 5:30 till 7:30 p.m. Come on over and say "Howdy".

Chamber participates in Friendship Faire

The Chamber was invited once again to participate in this year's Friendship Faire held on September 29th. Ambassador Chairperson Colleen Ruis managed to put a group together for handing out maps, L.G. information, and to sell a few license holders. The Sheriff's Crime Prevention Officer, and Chamber member--Jack Miller, helped inform the crowd as to securing their home and valuables; then managed to win every other door prize! Our men in the "red trucks" were there, and every kid in attendance climbed through their fire engine. Just be careful Colleen doesn't sic the Carmen Miranda Impersonator on you next year.

We also want to thank Rev's Pettis for their community concern. It was a good day and many spectators took the time to attend this year's Faire. If you missed it, shame on you; you've missed a great opportunity to find out what services are available in our area.

New Lemon Grove maps to be published by Chamber

The Chamber Office is running low on our area maps. Map Masters, the company responsible for the past three map years, is beginning their campaign for 1991. Their representative, Delores Spikes, will be calling upon those businesses interested in advertising. If you have received your information letter and interest card but have mislaid it don't worry. Just call the Chamber Office and we will have Delores contact you about setting up an appointment.

By the way, Pete Smith, our local Photo/Journalist, is working on a new cover for the 1991 map. If you aren't familiar with Pete and his works of art, then you will have a delightful surprise with the finished product. Or you might have recently seen the excellent job Pete did with the Lemon Grove Postcard. He has several ideas about a meaningful cover for the new map. Whatever he does will be professional and a labor of love.

October Sundowner

Our next Sundowner will be held at San Diego Trust and Savings Bank, on October 24, 1990, 5:30 till 7:30 p.m. The bank lobby was redecorated with the arrival of the new bank manager, Hal Jahries. Hal's not new anymore, he makes you feel like he has been managing the bank for many years. Actually, he was the man in charge for many years but in a different location. This will be a nice chance to meet your peers in a social setting. Come join in and you will be pleasantly surprised. You're going to enjoy yourself at the San Diego Trust and Savings Sundowner.

Mormans hold 8th Zions camp

by Spencer Rees

Mark Hunter (right) shows Scout caps and sweaters to Lance Wickman, regional representative at camp on Fiesta Island.

The Scouting program and the Mormon Church joined hands eighty years ago. The high ideas, service to fellow men, duty to God and country, along with outdoor activity interacting with Jesus Christ of Latter-day-Saints. Scouting became the activity arm of Aaronic Priesthood programs.

Sharp W. Daynes, still living in Salt Lake city, was a member of boy scout troop #1, franchised in 1910 - the first BSA troop in America. A letter of congratulations to four of his grandsons was read recently in a special court-of-honor in Santee Stake when each were awarded Eagle Scout badges.

Fiesta Island was dotted with tents September 21 and 22 for Zions encampment. Five Stakes brought 350 boys ages 11 through 143 to the camp. Fifty leaders were present as were older varsity scouts who 'ram-rodded'the events under the direction of adult supervision. One LDS Mexican Troop (under direction of Elmer Monroe) from Tijuana was there with scouts - one male and one female patrol participated.

Marc Hunter of Lemon Grove said, "Zions encampment this year is basically aquatic in nature with fifteen events (three sponsored by each stake) with emphasis on pioneering skills. Ten of the events are skill and three are for fun. Each troop and patrol campsite will be inspected and graded as to tidiness, appearance. displaying of flags, etc. Friday night a devotional was held with Rusty Coombs. San Diego County Councilman as guest speaker. Saturday night in a campfire awards ceremony, trophies were presented to winning patrols and troops."

We were on the Island for only a couple hours when we were met by Elder Lance B. Wickman, regional representative, along with Stake Presidents a. Zollinger and Wypert all adding their support and best wishes to the scouting effort. Everywhere we looked, we say youngsters enjoying the competition of various scouting skills. It appeared the 'oldsters' were having fun too! Food was cooked in the open, with just a sprinkle of 'sand.'
